JUDGE ALDEN WILL RETURN

Popular Lecturer to be Heard Second Time in Charleroi

TO APPEAR ON FRIDAY

The man that proved the most popular on the Charleroi Entertainment course last year was Judge George D. Alden and this Bostonian is to appear again on Friday night of this week to give one of his best lectures. Last year Judge Alden presented his lecture, "Needs of the Hour!" On Friday night he will speak on the subject "The Powder and the Match."

Alden's advance notices show that he is a direct lineal descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, who were made famous by Longfellow's characterization. He is a lawyer of considerable repute, and a thinker of great depth. His lecture "The Powder and the Match" is his latest achievement. It is a philosophical treatise of themes growing out of his first lecture "Needs of the Hour." For it he has pried into deeper truths and there are marked indications of progress both in arrangement of thought and elegance of expression.

Judge Alden's lecture will be the last on the local entertainment course this season.

NOW PEOPLE MAY CHOOSE SENATORS

Connecticut Ratifies Direct Election Plan and Makes Amendment Sure

MUST NOTIFY BRYAN

Direct election of United States senators became one of the provisions of the consitution Tuesday by Connecticut's ratification of the amendment to that effect. Thirty-six States, the requisite three-fourths of all in the union now have acted favorably to formally notify Secreary Bryan and for him to issue a proclamation announcing the change.

The amendment to the constitution is the second within the last few months.

WILL HOLD RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN

Monster Revival Planned by Monessen Church Workers

REV. HAMILTON ENGAGED

Second in importance only to the wonderful evangelistic campaign that was conducted last fall at McKeesport by Rev. Billy Sunday, a series of five weeks' meeings will open in Monessen on May 25. Rev. John Hamilton of Cleveland, Ohio, will be the evangelist and will have with him his corps of six assistants. Active preparations are now being made for the momtous campaign by the Personal Workers League of Monessen which organization will have charge locally.

A tabernacle to accommodate at least three thousand people is to be erected and provisions will be made for one of the largest choirs ever assembled in the Monongahela valley. The Protestant churches generally of the neighborhood are taking part in the movement and will see to it that the campaign is one of the greatest the Monongahela valley ever saw.

Dr. Hamilton is widely known throughout various western states as an evangelist. He was second choice, when it was ascertaind that Rev. Sunday could not be secured.

Features of unusual interest will be provided during the course of the campaign. One of them will be to have J. Denny O'Neil, county commisisoner of Alleghery county to speak. Another plan is to secure the assistance of Rev. Sunday for at least one day.

HOME TALENT PLAY PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Some Good Acting Shown in Production for the Episcopal Church

WILL BE REPEATED

Before a rather small but appreciative audience, the home talent play, "The Estrangement," was produced at Turner Hall last night. It will be repeated again tonight. It is given by the young people of St. Mary's Episcopal church, primarily as a farewell testimonial to Miss Marjorye Williams, who with her mother leaves shortly for Los Angeles, Cal., which will be their future home.

With due allowance for the difficulties and obstacles with which home talent companies have to contend, the play was really a cretitable performance. The plot was that of a young wife who thought herself neglecred, because her husband, a civil engineer had to be absent from home much of the time, and did not play the part of the devoted lover. In her pique the

Picnic is Arranged

Monongahela Schools Annual Outing to be Held at Eldora Park

Eldora Park will be the scene of the annual picnic of the Monongahela schools this spring, May 29 having been chosen as the date for the event. The picnic will be complimentary to the school children Claude E. Towner, of Monongahela to give them the outing. Special cars will be provided. The park management will assist Mr. Towner and the school authorities in making the picnic one of the best ever held. Eldora is a most popular resort for the school picnics of the valley, as many children have no other opportunity for such a day's outing which is a red letter event in their existence.

TROUBLE MAY END SHORTLY

Believed That Labor Disputes Will be Settled in Few Days

MAY NOT BE SERIOUS

Late developments indicate that labor trouble which has centered in this vicinity for some weeks will be ended shortly. The start was made when the glass men of the Belle Vernon plant of the American Window Glass company struck. Adams Express workmen struck several days ago, and last week the dock men of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company quit.

The glass plant at Belle Vernon is not in operation yet. However, it may be within a short time, inasmuch as there seems to be a tendency among the men themselves to go back and it is understood that the company will recognize certain of their claims. Where the American Window Glass company does balk is on recognizing the Industrial Workers of the World local formed at Belle Vernon shortly after the strike was declared.

The Adams Express company's strike does not assume the importance that it was reported at first it would. The company has not suspended business to any great extent, though it has closed down its Monessen office, which wasn't very much anyhow. A number of the regular men are still on duty, and it seems to be a comparatively easy matter for the company to supply men to take the places of those who did strike.

At Monongahela dockmen are returning to work under old conditions and it is understood the same plan is being followed by dockmen in other places. Their strike was for an increase of wages.

SCHUCK'S SCHEME TO ADJOURN IS KILLED

House Turns Down Plan of Westmoreland Representative

MAY 15 IS SUGGESTION

Last Pay Received on April 1 and Rush is Expected on Bills Now

Harrisburg, April 9—Outside of the regular grind of taking up and considering bills in their regular order as they appear on the calendar, little was done in the house and senate yesterday. Rpresentative Carey L. Schuck of Monessen, who has been fighting for a date for adjournment on May 15, lost out in the house, when his resolution was buried in the rules committee. Now that the members have drawn the last of their pay, the stipend is dwindling rapidly and by the time their campaign notes are paid off many of them are beginning to see that they will come out of the little end of the horn financially if the session is prolonged.

In the senate Tuesday Senator Powell succeeded in getting a resolution passed to potpone action on the question of submitting the proposed amendment for woman suffrage on April 22. This was done as several of the senators were absent on account of sickness.

A hearing was held Tuesday before the senate committee on the bill introduced to compel teachers of the public schools to read ten verses of the Bible each day. Rabbi J. Leonard Levy of Pittsburg appeared against the bill. He stated that while he had no objection to the reading of the Bible in the schools he did not believe it was good public policy to make it compulsory.

The house passed the Matt pension bill to appropriate $1,500,000 to pension civil war and other veterans of the state.

LEAVES HERE TO LOCATE IN LOS ANGELES

After 12 years of residence in Charleroi Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gault, accompanied by the former's sister, Miss Etta Gault, left this morning for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their future home. Mr. Gault plans to enter the contracting business, the same in which he has been engaged in Charleroi during the last six years. By their departure Charleroi loses a good family and in Mr. Gault a good citizen. Mr. Gault came here early in the history of the town and was one of the town's first carpenters. He did not remain however. Twelve years ago he returned and has since maintained his residence in Charleroi. Mr. Gault served one term in council and was a member of the present Board of Health.

DIVIDENDS MUST BE CUT.

Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, whose sensational disclosures of Wall Street methods some years ago turned the light of publicity on the manner in which the public was being mulct by "blue sky" stock promotions and other buccaneering methods, comes to the front again with a broadside blast as to what in his opinion must be done to avert a national uprising of labor and a general depression of industry and commerce. This is embodied in a four colum letter addressed. "To Labor and Finance," which is published in the New York and other leading newspapers. The letter was compiled for the Firemen-Railroad Arbitration Board, but is submitted for the consideration of organized labor and the investors in American securities.

Mr. Lawson says the American business, financial and labor world is unsettled. Unrest, uncertainty, dread, demoralization, are everywhere. For this condition there are two main causes: Labor with its present income cannot meet its present cost of living. If it cannot get sufficient increase of wages it would be compelled to abandon the present standard of living. This it will not do. The other cause is that there are sixty billions of American securities calling for an annual divident and interest return of three billion dollars. Twenty-five billions of these securities represent legitimate investment and increase, while thirty-five billion—nearly sixty per cent—are fictitious and unwarranted, and is being wrung out of the sweat and blood of labor. It is this which is making prices high and impoverishing the country.

Labor, Mr. Lawson says must get an increase in wages of a billion dollars, but it must not be at the expense of higher prices, as labor will not stand for this. It will revolt first. It is doing it now. This increase must come from a cut in the dividends and interest on the fictitious securities. If capital does not concede this, Mr. Lawson says, there will follow an era of tumult and demoralization that will cut the market worth of securities many times the amount labor must have. If an attempt is made to meet the revolt of labor by higher prices—more exactions from the consumer—then look out, for the deluge will come as inevitably as night will follow day.

TIME NO ELEMENT.

After a fight of twelve years by those favoring the innovation, in which the newspapers played a material part, the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people was assured Tuesday, when the Connecticut legislature ratified the proposed amendment to the constitution. By the vote of Connecticut three-fourths of the states have ratified the measure, and the new constitutional law will be known as the seventeenth amendment.

Time in a reform movement is no element. It has taken twelve years of continuous work and agitation to enact a change in the federal constitution, which was the first proposed sixty years ago. While the present indications are that the state senate will not permit the people to give an expersion on the question of woman suffrage at the next election, this action will not in the least kill the movement. This is the first time it really got started in this state and it will continue, gathering strength and impetus with each succeeding year. Ohio's revised constitution was attained after a continuous and often discouraging fight of eight years under the leadership of Rev. Herbert Bigelow, a militant minister of the gospel who finally routed the political machine cohorts of the Buckeye state.

The direct election of United States senators by the people is big gain in political reform, that will be reflected in every state. It will have the effect of eliminating interference in the election of asseblymen and senators by state bosses, as the latter will have nothing to gain and will not expend money to elect representatives for the sole purpose of supporting their man for the United States senatorship. Decent politics has won a big victory by the direct election of United States senators.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Chicago housewives one day this week paid 2 cents a pound or from 8 to 12 cents a head, for fresh cabbage. On South Water street commission merchants paid $1.50 to $2 a crate; down in the Rio Grande country on the Gulf Coast of Texas, cabbage was rotting on the farms.

The hunt for an answer to that problem prompted farmers, truck growers and agricultural experts from 30 States and Canada to start a three days' inquiry in Chicago Tuesday. Cabbage is only one of the products investigated. As Edward R. Kone, commissioner of agriculture of Texas, said somebody else is getting the money for nearly everything that farmers grow. The meeting was called to find out who gets the farmers' profits. Officially the assembly is known as the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits. It is independent of organizations and came into being because heads of farm granges, farm experts and growers who had invested millions in land in the aggregate, saw their products going to waste while the cost of living went up and the consumers paid the bill.

"The railroads aren't getting the money," said Kone, "at least we think not. The farmer isn't. The consumer isn't getting the farm goods cheaply. He's hollering about the high cost of living. Where does the money go? If to the middleman we're after him."

"We are going after the trouble in an organized way," said Peter Radford. "We want to know why we get only thirty cents on a bushel of potatoes which sell for 75 cents to $1 a bushel in Chicago. That seems too big a profit."

Other States besides Texas are in revolt. Warren Dunham Foster, member of the Massachusetts Homestead Commission, told why New England is supporting the conference.

"Potatoes we raise on truck farms in Cunningham, Mass., are rotting in the fields," said Mr. Foster. "In Worthington, a town practically contiguous to Cummington, they sell for $1.50 a bushel. There seems to be need for co-operation between east and west."

Sidney E. Mezes, president of the University of Texas, said: "To illustrate the gross injustice of our present marketing system I may point out the fact that at Laredo, Tex., in our onion growing district, one day a short time ago, onions were sold for two cents a pound; the next morning Laredo onions were sold in the open market at Austin, Tex., at 15 cents a pound. In this transaction, as you will see, the commission man, the public carrier and the retail dealer divided 650 per cent of the price paid to the grower. Again, tomatoes were sold one day at 2-3 cents each in Palestine, Tex., and the next morning were sold at Austin at five cents each. In each of the instances cited the producer received only 13 per cent of the final selling price, while 87 per cent was divided among the railroads and the sellers."

MORE OUT-DOOR LIVING

And Death Rate Will Be Lowered.

Statistics prove that the death rate is very much greater in the winter months than in summer and that the lack of fresh air is largely responsible fo this condition.

If the system becomes run down, blood thin and watery, circulation poor, no appetite, don't dose with drugs, but take our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol, not a patent medicine as everything in it is named on every package and if it does not give you a hearty appetite enrich the blood and create strength we will return your money: that shows our faith in Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. H. Hartman says: "I was in a run-down condition for about five years until this spring when I learned what a good tonic and strengthener Vinol is. It is certainly the best tonic I have ever used and it has done wonders for me."

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder:

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

68¼ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

67¾ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

A Giant Pepys Saw.

King James I. had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect, being round shouldered, knockkneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1676, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high anent whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15 1669: "Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

Happiness.

If you cannot be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity, like an absent-minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head.

In After Years.

Smith—When Green was courting that young widow a couple of years ago he declared he couldn't live without her. Jones—And did he marry her? Smith—Yes. And now he is trying to get a divorce on the grounds that it's impossible to live with her.—Exchange.

Quite Different.

He—But I thought you'd forgiven me for that and promised to forget it? She—Yes; but I didn't promise to let you forget I'd forgiven it.

The noblest motive is the public good.—Vergil.

A PERSISTENT ABBE.

Romance of Mountain Road Building In the Pyrenees.

C. L. Freeston in "The Passes of the Pyrenees" quotes the story of Felix Armand, cure of St. Martin-Lys, who pierced a road through the magnificent Gorge de Pierre-Lys in order to bring prosperity to his poverty stricken village. The cure himself marked out the route "hanging like a spider from the end of a rope over the awful precipices of the Pierre-Lys. After five years' incessant toil the workmen reached the huge mass of rock which blocks the gorge near Belvianes." Still he bravely incited his parishioners to persevere until in 1781 the tunnel was pierced which still bears the name of "Le Trou du Cure." The revolution stopped the work, but after the reign of terror the cure set to work anew.

"A pity the man should be a priest," said Napoleon when he heard of Armand's heroic efforts. "I would have made him a general in my army."

The cure's personal bravery was great. Once when a mine was about to explode a muleteer was seen riding round a corner. The priest instantly sprang out and extinguished a slow match just at its last inch. Armand was made an abbe, but he declined to leave his flock and was buried at St. Martin-Lys with the cross of the Legion of Honor on his breast.

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot.

A Primitive Partnership.

There are three partners in a boat in a Yorkshire fishing village who will not accept a check because the bank is too far away. They have two miles to walk to get their money orders cashed. Only one of the three is able to read and write, and he draws the money, and then the three sit at a table and divide it.

"One for yow," says the leader, and places a sovereign in front of one partner. "One for thee"—and another sovereign is put in front of the other partner. "And one for me"—and he places another at his own corner.

And so he goes on, "One for yow, one for thee, and one for me," until the sovereigns are equally shared, then the silver and even the pence are divided in the same way.—London Mail.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

No Trouble For Australian Aborigines to Break Camp.

An Australian aborigine breaks the monotony of his life by frequent visits to other camps, but his preparations for these holidays have a simplicity about them which must appeal to many a worried housewife. It is thus described by Messrs. Spencer and Gillen in "Across Australia:"

"Apart from ceremonies and dances, the one great break in the monotony of life is paying visits to strange camps. Packing up is not a tedious process. The man simply walks out of camp, carrying his spears, spear thrower, boomerangs and shield; the woman takes the youngest child across her hip, balances a pitchi on her head, and, with one arm round the child and a digging stick in her free hand, she is ready for the road. The girl children and younger women look after the puppies, which are never left behind on any account, and, when unable to walk, are carried in pitchis like young babies.

"Two miles at most is all the time required to see an aboriginal family to pack up and start and there is no trouble in regard to the house while the owners are away. If any one chooses to occupy it during their absence he can do so, but the owners will see at a distance who has been in possession while they have been away."

Beauty of Colonial Gateposts

Perhaps no other feature adds more to the seclusion and dignity of a home than well designed entrance gateposts. The meeting point of house and grounds always presents a difficult problem, even in the best suburban architecture. Shrubbery often mitigates this unavoidable intersection, but the old fashioned white picket fence, full of interesting detail and backed up by hedges, solved the problem most satisfactorily. Yet this best solution must be used with discretion. On suburban streets broken up into many small lots, there should be an agreement on the part of several neighbors to put up the same sort of fence; otherwise the different heights and shapes of the pickets would be too disturbing to add any beauty to the houses. In other words, a good picket fence demands a certain amount of continuity to do it justice. In the gateposts, however, a great variety could be displayed, and where there is a group of little colonial houses, or even only colonial doorways, the famous old gateposts of Salem offer a wealth of suggestion.—Country Life In America.

Praise This Remedy For Consumption

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people living in all parts of the country, praising Eckman's Alterative a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. We state none but facts, and give to you the names and words of praise of those who declare it benefited them—in many cases coupled with the writers' statements that it restored them to health. This is a sample taken from many:—

St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska.

"Gentlemen:—About seven years ago I was attacked with the dread disease, Tuberculosis. I coughed unceasingly, could not sleep nor eat, even could not speak out loud and could do no work. I had three hemorrhages, raised blood most of the time and suffered of night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless.

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alterative and procured some at once, with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. For the past four years I have been able to continue my teaching, and though I have always had heavy school work, I am also able to perform much manual labor. I consider your medicine, if faithfully taken, a most excellent remedy for Consumption. Mother Superior permits this testimonial.

(Signed) SISTER MARIE,
Sisters of St. Francis.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever; Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. A Modern Raleigh.

He was a stalwart young citizen she a charming young woman. They were under an awning. The rain had ceased, but the street was muddy. He did not look like Sir Walter Raleigh nor did she look like Queen Elizabeth But probably Q. E. never looked prettier

"Wuxtry poipers!" shouted a news boy.

"Say, kid," he said, "are you too busy to earn a half dollar?"

"Well, Bo," replied the boy, "do I look like a cheap edition of Mr Rocke-by-baby? Show me de mun."

"Well, boy, take your papers, spread 'em out from curb to car track. Cover the mud with 'em. Get busy!"

He paid the astonished boy. The car came. He bowed in courtly manner to the queen. She blushed and said:

"Oh, Billy, you foolish boy!" But she walked over the papered path as proudly as Q. E. could have done.

Then, like Q. E., she sentenced him for life. He is her meal ticket now.—Chicago Record-Herald

"More Bacon."

Many years ago Congdon's tavern in Wickford, Rhode Island, was famous for its good cheer, and in "Early Rhode Island" W. B. Weeden has an entertaining tale of John Randolph of Roanoke, who was once a visitor at the inn.

Mr. Randolph was on his way to Newport and made his journey on horseback with his cousin Edmund ~~secretary of state under~~ Washington All the way from New York "ham and eggs" had been the universal fare. At Wickford Congdon said he would give them clams for supper. The eccentric John of Roanoke rubbed his hands in pleased expectation. Then appeared the host again, saying the tide was too high for clams, but they should have some capital quahaugs.

"Good heavens," exclaimed Randolph who did not know that the quahaug is a hard shelled variety of clam, "more bacon!"

SOCIETY AND PERSONAL

wife receives the attention of an Italian artist, who makes love to her and finally induces her to elope. The plan is frustrated and the woman returns to her home, but under a cloud of estrangement because of her indiscretion. Later the artist follows the couple into Italy, where he forces his attentions on the wife, who rejects him. This again excites the suspicions of teh husband who learns the true situation, and deals with the villian and becomes reunited with his wife.

As Beatrice Fane, the erring wife Miss Marjorye Williams essays the role most cleverly. She played the part with dignity and subdued naturalism, and her depiction of the psyhic parts showed her true conception of emotionalism in which she is particularly strong. Her work in all the acts was beautifully and impressively done and she won merited applause in the various situations where she appeared to the best advantage.

All the roles were capably acted. Ban Roberts is strong as the cockney Englishman and his dialogue and general inanity, particulalry when he makes love to Mrs. Merryweather the widowed sister of Beatrice Fane displays a fine vein of comedy. Miss Amelia Patricks essays the role of the widow most demurely and charmingly, and the two keep the audience in rare good humor whenever they appear. Little Irene Pardini, as Trixy, the daughter of Mrs. Fane, plays her part unaffectedly and with a naturaliness that is surprising in a child of her years.

Frank Buchanan as George Fane, the wronged husband and George D. Youngman as Rivola, the villain, played their parts with expression and force, while the other minor parts were capably acted. The clever staging and setting of the various scenes under direction of Tom Cummings, together with the music of the Imperial orchestra under direction of Samuel Simcox, added materially to the success of the performance.

It is expected that a large crowd will attend the presentation tonight.

COAL CENTRE NOW HAS A REVIVAL

The Presbyterian church at Coal Centre was crowded Sunday night at the special evangelistic services due to the fact that Rev. H. L. Humbert brought his whole congregation over to take part in the services. The large chorus led by Harry Elwood is the talk of the town. The young people sing well under the direction of their leader. The Christian Endeavor society of Roscoe to the number of thirty or more came up on the 6:30 express held a union meeting with the Coal Centre society and remained for the evangelistic service. All enjoyed the quartet by the C. E. quartet from Roscoe as well as the solo by Miss Pearl Kenyon. The meetings are to continue all week.

William Anderson with his wife, his sister and his father-in-law left this morning for Portland, Oregon to locate.

Miss Bina West of Port Huron, Mich., to be Entertained at Donora Friday

MAKING PREPARATIONS

Hives From All Along Monongahela Valley to Send Delegates---Other Officers Coming

Elaborate arrangements are being made by Monongahela valley hives of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World to entertain at Donora on Friday of this week Miss Bina M. West, of Port Huron, Mich., supreme commander of the order. Other noted state and supreme officers of the order will also be entertained.

Delegates will be present from all the hives in the valley for the momentous occasion, and large classes of candidates will be presented to Miss West. Beautiful display drills will be given.

Miss West is now on a tour of several cities of the country where hives are located. Meetings have ben arranged at Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Harrisburg, Bradford, Franklin, New Castle and Pittsburg in addition to the one at Donora. The rally at Donora will be held in the afternoon of Friday at 2 o'clock in the Odd Fellows Hall.

Other supreme officers who will accompany Miss West are Miss Nellie E. Lounsbury of Warren, great commander of Pennsylvania hives; Mrs. Elizabeth Brown of Bradford, past supreme commander and Mrs. H. M. Ellsworth of Corry past great commander of Pennsylvania.

There are now 167,000 members carrying life benefits in the L. O. T. M., a total protection inforce of nearly $115,000,000 making the order one of the greatest financial institutions among women of modern times. JUDGE ALDEN WILL RETURN

Popular Lecturer to be Heard Second Time in Charleroi

TO APPEAR ON FRIDAY

The man that proved the most popular on the Charleroi Entertainment course last year was Judge George D. Alden and the Bostonian is to appear again on Friday night of this week to give one of his best lectures. Last year Judge Alden presented his lecture, "Needs of the Hour!" On Friday night he will speak on the subject "The Powder and the Match."

Alden's advance notices show that he is a direct lineal descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, who were made famous by Longfellow's characterization. He is a lawyer of considerable repute, and a thinker of great depth. His lecture "The Powder and the Match" is his latest achievement. It is a philosophical treatise of themes growing out of his first lecture "Needs of the Hour." For it he has pried into deeper truths and there are marked indications of progress both in arrangement of thought and elegance of expression.

Judge Alden's lecture will be the last on the local entertainment course this season.

NOW PEOPLE MAY CHOOSE SENATORS

Connecticut Ratifies Direct Election Plan and Makes Amendment Sure

MUST NOTIFY BRYAN

Direct election of United States senators became one of the provisions of the constitution Tuesday by Connecticut's ratification of the amendment to that effect. Thirty-six States, the requisite three-fourths of all in the union now have acted favorably to formally notify Secreary Bryan and for him to issue a proclamation announcing the change.

The amendment to the constitution is the second within the last few months.

WILL HOLD RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN

Monster Revival Planned by Monessen Church Workers

REV. HAMILTON ENGAGED

Second in importance only to the wonderful evangelistic campaign that was conducted last fall at McKeesport by Rev. Billy Sunday, a series of five weeks' meeings will open in Monessen on May 25. Rev. John Hamilton of Cleveland, Ohio, will be the evangelist and will have with him his corps of six assistants. Active preparations are now being made for the momtous campaign by the Personal Workers League of Monessen which organization will have charge locally.

A tabernacle to accommodate at least three thousand people is to be erected and provisions will be made for one of the largest choirs ever assembled in the Monongahela valley. The Protestant churches generally of the neighborhood are taking part in the movement and will see to it that the campaign is one of the greatest the Monongahela valley ever saw.

Dr. Hamilton is widely known throughout various western states as an evangelist. He was second choice, when it was ascertaind that Rev. Sunday could not be secured.

Features of unusual interest will be provided during the course of the campaign. One of them will be to have J. Denny O'Neil, county commisioner of Allegheny county to speak. Another plan is to secure the assistance of Rev. Sunday for at least one day.

HOME TALENT PLAY PROVES BIG SUCCESS

WILL BE REPEATED

Before a rather small but appreciative audience, the home talent play, "The Estrangement," was produced at Turner Hall last night. It will be repeated again tonight. It is given by the young people of St. Mary's Episcopal church, primarily as a farewell testimonial to Miss Marjorye Williams, who with her mother leaves shortly for Los Angeles, Cal., which will be their future home.

With due allowance for the difficulties and obstacles with which home talent companies have to contend, the play was really a cretitable performance. The plot was that of a young wife who thought herself neglected, because her husband, a civil engineer had to be absent from home much of the time, and did not play the part of the devoted lover. In her pique the

House Turns Down Plan of Westmoreland Representative

MAY IS SUGGESTION

Last Pay Received on April 1 and Rush is Expected on Bills Now

Harrisburg, April 9—Outside of the regular grind of taking up and considering bills in their regular order as they appear on the calendar, little was done in the house and senate yesterday. Rpresentative Carey L. Schuck of Monessen, who has been fighting for a date for adjournment on May 15, lost out in the house, when his resolution was buried in the rules committee. Now that the members have drawn the last of their pay, the stipend is dwindling rapidly and by the time their campaign notes are paid off many of them are beginning to see that they will come out of the little end of the horn financially if the session is prolonged.

In the senate Tuesday Senator Powell succeeded in getting a resolution passed to potpone action on the question of submitting the proposed amendment for woman suffrage on April 22. This was done as several of the senators were absent on account of sickness.

A hearing was held Tuesday before the senate committee on the bill introduced to compel teachers of the public schools to read ten verses of the Bible each day. Rabbi J. Leonard Levy of Pittsburg appeared against the bill. He stated that while he had no objection to the reading of the Bible in the schools he did not believe it was good public policy to make it compulsory.

The house passed the Matt pension bill to appropriate $1,500,000 to pension civil war and other veterans of the state.

Picnic is Arranged

Monongahela Schools Annual Outing to be Held at Eldora Park

Eldora Park will be the scene of the annual picnic of the Monongahela schools this spring, May 29 having been chosen as the date for the event. The picnic will be complimentary to the school children Claude E. Towner, of Monongahela to give them the outing. Special cars will be provided. The park management will assist Mr. Towner and the school authorities in making the picnic one of the best ever held. Eldora is a most popular resort for the school picnics of the valley, as many children have no other opportunity for such a day's outing which is a red letter event in their existence.

TROUBLE MAY END SHORTLY

Believed That Labor Disputes Will be Settled in Few Days

MAY NOT BE SERIOUS

Late developments indicate that labor trouble which has centered in this vicinity for some weeks will be ended shortly. The start was made when the glass men of the Belle Vernon plant of the American Window Glass company struck. Adams Express workmen struck several days ago, and last week the dock men of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company quit.

The glass plant at Belle Vernon is not in operation yet. However, it may be within a short time, inasmuch as there seems to be a tendency among the men themselves to go back and it is understood that the company will recognize certain of their claims. Where the American Window Glass company does balk is on recognizing the Industrial Workers of the World local formed at Belle Vernon shortly after the strike was declared.

The Adams Express company's strike does not assume the importance that it was reported at first it would. The company has not suspended business to any great extent, though it has closed down its Monessen office, which wasn't very much anyhow. A number of the regular men are still on duty, and it seems to be a comparatively easy matter for the company to supply men to take the places of those who did strike.

At Monongahela dockmen are returning to work under old conditions and it is understood the same plan is being followed by dockmen in other places. Their strike was for an increase of wages.

LEAVES HERE TO LOCATE IN LOS ANGELES

After 12 years of residence in Charleroi Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gault, accompanied by the former's sister, Miss Etta Gault, left this morning for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their future home. Mr. Gault plans to enter the contracting business, the same in which he has been engaged in Charleroi during the last six years. By their departure Charleroi loses a good family and in Mr. Gault a good citizen. Mr. Gault came here early in the history of the town and was one of the town's first carpenters. He did not remain however. Twelve years ago he returned and has since maintained his residence in Charleroi. Mr. Gault served one term in council and was a member of the present Board of Health.

Mrs. E. E. Piper is spending the day in Pittsburg.

DIVIDENDS MUST BE CUT.

Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, whose sensational disclosures of Wall Street methods some years ago turned the light of publicity on the manner in which the public was being mulct by "blue sky" stock promotions and other buccaneering methods, comes to the front again with a broadside blast as to what in his opinion must be done to avert a national uprising of labor and a general depression of industry and commerce. This is embodied in a four colum letter addressed. "To Labor and Finance," which is published in the New York and other leading newspapers. The letter was compiled for the Firemen-Railroad Arbitration Board, but is submitted for the consideration of organized labor and the investors in American securities.

Mr. Lawson says the American business, financial and labor world is unsettled. Unrest, uncertainty, dread, demoralization, are everywhere. For this condition there are two main causes: Labor with its present income cannot meet its present cost of living. If it cannot get sufficient increase of wages it would be compelled to abandon the present standard of living. This it will not do. The other cause is that there are sixty billions of American securities calling for an annual divident and interest return of three billion dollars. Twenty-five billions of these securities represent legitimate investment and increase, while thirty-five billion—nearly sixty per cent—are fictitious and unwarranted, and is being wrung out of the sweat and blood of labor. It is this which is making prices high and impoverishing the country.

Labor, Mr. Lawson says must get an increase in wages of a billion dollars, but it must not be at the expense of higher prices, as labor will not stand for this. It will revolt first. It is doing it now. This increase must come from a cut in the dividends and interest on the fictitious securities. If capital does not concede this, Mr. Lawson says, there will follow an era of tumult and demoralization that will cut the market worth of securities many times the amount labor must have. If an attempt is made to meet the revolt of labor by higher prices—more exactions from the consumer—then look out, for the deluge will come as inevitably as night will follow day.

TIME NO ELEMENT.

After a fight of twelve years by those favoring the innovation, in which the newpapers played a material part, the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people was assured Tuesday, when the Connecticut legislature ratified the proposed amendment to the constitution. By the vote of Connecticut three-fourths of the states have ratified the measure, and the new constitutional law will be known as the seventeenth amendment.

Time in a reform movement is no element. It has taken twelve years of contests with anti agitation to enact a change in the federal constitution, which was the first proposed sixty years ago. While the present indications are that the state senate will not permit the people to give an expression on the question of woman suffrage at the next election, this action will not in the least kill the movement. This is the first time it really got started in this state and it will continue, gathering strength and impetus with each succeeding year. Ohio's revised constitution was attained after a continuous and often discouraging fight of eight years under the leadership of Rev. Herbert Bigelow, a militant minister of the gospel who finally routed the political machine coherts of the Buckeye state.

The direct election of United States senators by the people is big gain in political reform, that will be reflected in every state. It will have the effect of eliminating interference in the election of assemlymen and senators by state bosses, as the latter will have nothing to gain and will not expend money to elect representatives for the sole purpose of supporting their man for the United States senatorship. Decent politics has won a big victory by the direct election of United States senators.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Chicago housewives one day this week paid 2 cents a pound or from 8 to 12 cents a head, for fresh cabbage. On South Water street commission merchants paid $1.50 to $2 a crate; down in the Rio Grande country on the Gulf Coast of Texas, cabbage was rotting on the farms.

The hunt for an answer to that problem prompted farmers, truck growers and agricultural experts from 30 States and Canada to start a three days' inquiry in Chicago Tuesday. Cabbage is only one of the products investigated. As Edward R. Kone, commissioner of agriculture of Texas, said somebody else is getting the money for nearly everything that farmers grow. The meeting was called to find out who gets the farmers' profits. Officially the assembly is known as the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits. It is came into being because heads of farm granges, farm experts and growers who had invested millions in land in the aggregate, saw their products going to waste while the cost of living went up and the consumers paid the bill.

"The railroads aren't getting the money," said Kone. "At least we think not. The farmer isn't. The consumer isn't getting the farm goods cheaply. He's hollering about the high cost of living. Where does the money go? If to the middleman we're after him."

"We are going after the trouble in an organized way," said Peter Radford. "We want to know why we get only thirty cents on a bushel of potatoes which sell for 75 cents to $1 a bushel in Chicago. That seems too big a profit."

Other States besides Texas are in revolt. Warren Dunham Foster, member of the Massachusetts Homestead Commission, told why New England is supporting the conference.

"Potatoes we raise on truck farms in Cunningham, Mass., are rotting in the fields," said Mr. Foster. "In Worthington, a town practically contiguous to Cummington, they sell for $1.50 a bushel. There seems to be need for co-operation between east and west."

Sidney E. Mezes, president of the University of Texas, said: "To illustrate the gross injustice of our present marketing system I may point out the fact that at Laredo, Tex., in our onion growing district, one day a short time ago, onions were sold for two cents a pound; the next morning Laredo onions were sold in the open market at Austin, Tex., at 15 cents a pound. In this transaction, as you will see, the commission man, the public carrier and the retail dealer divided 650 per cent of the price paid to the grower. Again, tomatoes were sold one day at 2-3 cents each in Palestine, Tex., and the next morning were sold at Austin at five cents each. In each of the instances cited the producer received only 13 per cent of the final selling price, while 87 per cent was divided among the railroads and the sellers."

MORE OUT-DOOR LIVING

And Death Rate Will Be Lowered.

Statistics prove that the death rate is very much greater in the winter months than in summer and that the lack of fresh air is largely responsible for this condition.

If the system becomes run down, blood thin and watery, circulation poor, no appetite, don't dose with drugs, but take our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol, not a patent medicine as everything in it is named on every package and if it does not give you a hearty appetite enrich the blood and create strength we will return your money: that shows our faith in Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. H. Hartman says: "I was in a run-down condition for about five years until this spring when I learned what a good tonic and strengthener Vinol is. It is certainly the best tonic I have ever used and it has done wonders for me."

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

The relative percentage of the food digested is shown as follows:

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder:

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

68¼ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

67¾ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

A Giant Pepys Saw.

King James I. had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect, being round shouldered, knockkneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1676, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high anent whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1669: "Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

Happiness.

If you cannot be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity, like an absent-minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head

Romance of Mountain Road Building in the Pyrenees.

C. L. Freestou in "The Passes of the Pyrenees" quotes the story of Felix Armand, cure of St. Martin-Lys, who pierced a road through the magnificent Gorge de Pierre-Lys in order to bring prosperity to his poverty stricken village. The cure himself marked out the route, "hanging like a spider from the end of a rope over the awful precipices of the Pierre-Lys. After five years' incessant toil the workmen reached the huge mass of rock which blocks the gorge near Belvianes." Still he bravely incited his parishioners to persevere until in 1781 the tunnel was pierced which still bears the name of "Le Trou du Cure." The revolution stopped the work, but after the reign of terror the cure set to work anew.

"A pity the man should be a priest," said Napoleon when he heard of Armand's heroic efforts, "I would have made him a general in my army."

The cure's personal bravery was great. Once when a mine was about to explode a muleteer was seen riding round a corner. The priest instantly [illegible] match just at its last inch. Armand was made an abbe, but he declined to leave his flock and was buried at St Martin-Lys with the cross of the Legion of Honor on his breast

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydner Smith, who, with Byron and Moore was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot.

A Primitive Partnership.

There are three partners in a boat in a Yorkshire fishing village who will not accept a check because the bank is too far away. They have two miles to walk to get their money orders cashed. Only one of the three is able to read and write, and he draws the money, and then the three sit at a table and divide it.

"One for yow," says the leader, and places a sovereign in front of one partner. "One for thee"—and another sovereign is put in front of the other partner. "And one for me"—and he places another at his own corner.

And so he goes on, "One for yow, one for thee, and one for me," until the sovereigns are equally shared, then the silver and even the pence are divided in the same way.—London Mail.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

No Trouble For Australian Aborigines to Break Camp.

An Australian aborigine breaks the monotony of his life by frequent visits to other camps, but his preparations for these holidays have a simplicity about them which must appeal to many a worried housewife. It is thus described by Messrs. Spencer and Gillen in "Across Australia:"

"Apart from ceremonies and dances, the one great break in the monotony of life is paying visits to strange camps. Packing up is not a tedious process. The man simply walks out of camp, carrying his spears, spear thrower, boomerangs and shield; the woman takes the youngest child across her hip, balances a pitchi on her head, and, with one arm round the child and a digging stick in her free hand, she is ready for the road. The girl children and younger women look after the puppies, which are never left behind on any account, and, when unable to walk, are carried in pitchis like young babies.

"Two minutes at most is all the time required for an aboriginal family to pack up and start and there is no trouble in regard to the house while the owners are away. If any one chooses to occupy it during their absence he can do so, but the owners will see at a glance who has been in possession while they have been away."

Beauty of Colonial Gateposts.

Perhaps no other feature adds more to the seclusion and dignity of a house than well designed entrance gateposts. The meeting point of house and grounds always presents a difficult problem, even in the best suburban architecture. Shrubbery often mitigates this unpardonable intersection but the old fashioned white picket fence, full of interesting detail and backed up by hedges, solved the problem most satisfactorily. Yet this best solution must be used with discretion. On suburban streets broken up into many small lots, there should be an agreement on the part of several neighbors to put up the same sort of fence: [illegible] shapes of the pickets would be too disturbing to add any beauty to the houses. In other words, a good picket fence demands a certain amount of continuity to do it justice. In the gateposts, however, a great variety could be displayed, and where there is a group of little colonial houses, or even only colonial doorways, the famous old gateposts of Salem offer a wealth of suggestion.—Country Life in America.

Praise This Remedy For Consumption

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people living in all parts of the country, praising Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. We state none but facts, and give to you the names and words of praise of those who declare it benefited them—in many cases coupled with the writers' statements that it restored them to health. This is a sample taken from many:—

St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska. "Gentlemen—About seven years ago I was attacked with the dread disease, Tuberculosis. I coughed unceasingly, could not sleep nor eat, even could not speak out loud and could do no work. I had three hemorrhages, raised blood most of the time and suffered of night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless.

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alterative and procured some at once with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. For the past four years I have been able to continue my heavy school work, I am also able to perform much manual labor. I consider your medicine, if faithfully taken, the most excellent remedy for Consumption. Mother Superior permits this testimonial. (Signed) SISTER MARIA, Sisters of St. Francis.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

A Modern Raleigh.

He was a stalwart young citizen she a charming young woman. They were under an awning. The rain had ceased, but the street was muddy. He did not look like Sir Walter Raleigh nor did she look like Queen Elizabeth But probably Q. E. never looked prettier.

"Wuxtry peipers!" shouted a news boy.

"Say, kid," he said, "are you too busy to earn a half dellar?"

"Well, Bo," replied the boy, "do I look like a cheap edition of Mr Rocke-by-baby? Show me de mun."

"Well, boy, take your papers, spread 'em out from curb to car track. Cover the mud with 'em. Get busy!"

He paid the astonished boy. The car came. He bowed in courtly manner to the queen. She blushed and said:

"Oh, Billy, you foolish boy!" But she walked over the papered path as proudly as Q. E. could have done.

Then, like Q. E., she sentenced him for life. He is her meal ticket now.—Chicago Record-Herald

"More Bacon."

Many years ago Congdon's tavern in Wickford, Rhode Island, was famous for its good cheer, and in "Early Rhode Island" W. B. Weeden has an entertaining tale of John Randolph of Roanoke, who was once a visitor at the inn.

Mr. Randolph was on his way to Newport and made his journey on horseback with his cousin Edmund secretary of state under Washington All the way from New York "ham and eggs" had been the universal fare. At Wickford Congdon said he would give them clams for supper. The eccentric John of Roanoke rubbed his hands in pleased expectation. Then appeared the host again, saying the tide was too high for clams, but they should have some capital quahaugs.

"Good heavens," exclaimed Randolph who did not know that the quahaug is a hard shelled variety of clam, "more bacon!"

wife receives the attention of an Italian artist, who makes love to her and finally induces her to elope. The plan is frustrated and the woman returns to her home, but under a cloud of estrangement because of her indiscretion. Later the artist follows the attentions on the wife, who rejects him. This again excites the suspicions of teh husband who learns the true situation, and deals with the villian and becomes reunited with his wife.

As Beatrice Fane, the erring wife Miss Marjorye Williams essays the role most cleverly. She played the part with dignity and subdued naturalism, and her depiction of the psyhic parts showed her true conception of emotionalism in which she is particularly strong. Her work in all the acts was beautifully and impressively done and she won merited applause in the various situations where she appeared to the best advantage.

All the roles were capably acted. Ban Roberts is strong as the cockney Englishman and his dialogue and general inanity, particulalry when he makes love to Mrs. Merryweather the widowed sister of Beatrice Fane displays a fine vein of comedy. Miss Amelia Patricks essays the role of the widow most demurely and charmingly, and the two keep the audience in rare good humor whenever they appear. Little Irene Pardini, as Trixy, the daughter of Mrs. Fane, plays her part unaffectedly and with a naturaliness that is surprising in a child of her years.

Frank Buchanan as George Fane, the wronged husband and George D. Youngman as Rivola, the villain, played their parts with expression and force, while theother minor parts were capably acted. The clever staging and setting of the various scenes under direction of Tom Cummings, together with the music of the Imperial orchestra under direction of Samuel Simcox, added materially to the success of the performance.

It is expected that a large crowd will attend the presentation tonight.

COAL CENTRE NOW HAS A REVIVAL

The Presbyterian church at Coal Centre was crowded Sunday night at the special evangelistic services due to the fact that Rev. H. L. Humbert brought his whole congregation over to take part in the services. The large chorus led by Harry Elwood is the talk of the town. The young people sing well under the direction of their leader. The Christian Endeavor society of Roscoe to the number of thirty or more came up on the 6:30 express held a union meeting with the Coal Centre society and remained for the evangelistic service. All enjoyed the quartet by the C. E. quartet from Roscoe as well as the solo by Miss Pearl Kenyon. The meetings are to continue all week.
